Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-35 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

While Wookey (U.S. Patent No. 6,023,507) discloses a monitoring system that automatically communicates system diagnostic information from a monitored computer to a remote service center computer at a programmable periodic interval. The remote monitoring system includes a plurality of monitored computers couples together by a network. The diagnostic information from the monitored computers is collected at a memory location for communicating to the remote monitoring system at predetermined intervals. Wookey does not teach the local monitors performing the monitoring in response to a command from the service center coupled to the network outside the domain; and other limitations related to these features in combination with the remaining elements and features of the claimed invention.

Wilson (U.S. Patent No. 6,714,976) discloses a system for monitoring a distributed computer system. Distributed, automated intelligent monitoring agents use embedded sensing technology to monitor continuously the network environment in real time. Trigger events and associated data to be collected are defined. The occurrence of one of the trigger events at a client is detected while monitoring a connection between a client and a first server. Client data is collected in accordance with the one trigger event at the client. Wilson does not teach one or more agents each operable to monitor one or more corresponding applications in response to command received from a monitoring and management portal coupled to the network outside the domain; and other limitations related to these features in combination with the remaining elements and features of the claimed invention.

And Yavatkar (U.S. Patent No. 6,735,702) discloses a system for monitoring network traffic when a particular network condition is detected, gathering information about the traffic on the network by launching an agent and having the agent iteratively identify which of the links on the node on which the agent operates accepts a type or class of traffic, traverse the identified link to the nodes across the link, and repeat the process. Yavatkar does not teach one or more agents each operable to monitor one or more corresponding applications in response to command received from a monitoring and management portal coupled to the network outside the domain; and other limitations related to these features in combination with the remaining elements and features of the claimed invention.

None of these references taken either alone or in combination discloses a method and device for enabling remote monitoring and management of one or more applications within a domain having all the claimed features of applicant's instant invention, specifically including: one or more agents each operable to monitor one or more corresponding applications in response to command received from a monitoring and management portal coupled to the network outside the domain. Also, there is no motivation to combine the references to meet these limitations. It is for these reasons that applicant's invention defines over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
